Completion of Pavilion pushed back

BY ALAN C. SCHULMAN
Palacios Beacon - Reporter

Last week's Palacios Beautification & Pavilion Committee Meeting revealed a new targeted completion date of mid-February 2017.

The first scheduled event for the New Pavilion has been moved from November 11, 2016 to February 17, 2017, giving the Committee a little 'breathing room' to get the facility built and up-and-running before the Birding Festival.

Payment #8 of $181,954.75 brings the total cost of the new Pavilion paid to 49.37%, so it's all downhill from here. Meanwhile, many funding requests are still in the works. Also, the Mailer Campaign has brought in many donations, and the Brick Paver drive has, so far, resulted in 74 orders.

Construction Progress
Mike Murray reported that, due to the fabrication company's failure to follow the plans accurately, hardware was being sent back to them for modifications and corrections.

PBPC President Joe Kana commented that "Mike has stayed on it and caught things and brought it to the attention

BY ALAN C. SCHULMAN
Palacios Beacon - Reporter

But, it was not all praise from Ms. Loving. During the 'public comments/audience participation' portion of the meeting, she urged the Board to begin meetings at the specified time out of respect for the public and students who are there to receive awards and other recognition. Loving also took issue with the wording of "Interrogations" in the Student Rights and Responsibilities policy.

Communications/ Presentations

Carolyn Kubecka presented the STAAR and EOC test results, and reported that Palacios ISD scored "either at or above the state at all grade levels in all subjects." She also outlined the Assessment Calendar and reviewed the 2016-2017 Handbooks, which included: Student Handbook, Campus Procedures Manual, Student Code of Conduct, Employee Hand-
